Faculty Size, Scope of Benefits Add to Impact of Salary Decision

(First of a series)
(Emotion and sentiment often cloud the issue of education expenditures, making it difficult for parents, voters and taxpayers to evaluate school salary disputes.)

(Whether there will be a sufficient teaching staff for schools to open in Granite City in two weeks has been made uncertain by a mass resignation procedure called illegal by the district and legal by the teacher union. Actions by the two parties indicate the teachers want their jobs, and that the district wants them as employees, but they remain far apart on the salary level.)

With this series, the Press-Record attempts to put the school board-union disagreement into perspective. There are serious ramifications for all; all need a realistic picture of the facts and figures.)

Most people who teach in schools should be well paid, and that Granite City teachers should get a raise this year. It is the question of "how much" that divides employees and elected officials and may disrupt the scheduled start of classes in 1968-70.

Part of the differences of opinion may stem from misunderstanding resulting from the extreme complexity. School budgets, levies, reports and audits give some details, but a Press-Record study going into much greater depth was necessary to pinpoint other pertinent facts.

Teacher pay is the chief element in local property taxes and was a major factor in the establishment of an Illinois state income tax this year, and yet it is possible to cite random salaries that do not seem to bear out this statement. Why?

1. The vast size of the faculty intensifies the impact of any salary decisions. In 1968-69, 777 in 1969-70. The 700 last year consisted of 655 instructors, counselors, librarians, nurses and therapists and 45 administrators, principals and supervisors-consultants.

2. Funds are devoted not only to salaries but to a comprehensive list of fringe benefits and other benefits which add substantially to the cost per teacher, and in most cases, to take-home pay. For example, the 655 averaged $8644 during the 1967-68 school year—$860 a month.

Although attention usually centers on minimum and maximum figures of the salary schedule, most teachers fall somewhere in between.

A typical teacher, one with five prior years of experience and holding a bachelor degree with 150 college credit hours, is used here to illustrate this point, along with a teacher with bachelor degree and no experience, and an instructor in his twelfth year with a master degree and 190 credit hours.

Extra's May Double

The offer made by the Granite City school district this spring would approximately double the cost of existing fringes and other benefits.

In addition to the benefits, the following monthly and nine-month salaries have been part of the negotiations between a team of board members and administrators and the salary policy committee of Granite City Local 743 of the American Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO:

A starting teacher was paid $669 a month ($8025 for the school year) in 1968-69, including $13 ($125) under a cost-of-living provision. The offer, if $777 ($7000), up 16%, including $16 ($150) for cost-of-living, would raise the teacher to $893 ($8800), up 41%; this includes $16 ($150).

A typical teacher was paid $889 ($7825) and is offered $1000 ($8900), up 15%. Local 743 (Continued on page 10, col. 1)

$125,000 Fire Loss At Gasen's Drug Store

Thieves Hide, Steal Narcotics, Turn Off Sprinklers, Set Blaze

Fire set by arsonists caused damage estimated at $125,000 to the Gasen's drug store in the Namecki Village shopping center early Saturday. Two firemen were injured and one was seriously hurt.

Firemen, who were summoned at 2:40 a.m., believe that the fire was set in two places by burglars, who had stolen drugs and narcotics reported to be missing by the store management.

George Asbed, Gasen's St. Louis district manager, who inspected the fire damage, said that the fire was set in two places by burglars, who had stolen drugs and narcotics reported to be missing by the store management.

The burglars apparently hid in the store shortly before closing time. A rear door had been unlocked from the inside to permit a get-away.

The store is equipped with an automatic sprinkler system, but the sprinklers were turned off, firemen said. The store manager told firemen that it was a policy to leave them turned off at all times, and it is thought the arsonists turned them off. When the sprinklers had activated, an alarm is automatically sounded.

The damage included about $25,000 to the building and about $100,000 to the contents.

Water, Smoke Damage
Much of the damage was caused by water and smoke, but parts of the ceiling were hanging loose and cartons of merchandise collapsed. About 2000 items were on the floor in some areas.

Taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital
Sunderland, 41, of 2037 Dewey avenue, and Raymond C. Way, 24, of 2832 Wayne avenue, were taken to St. Elizabeth hospital, where they were treated for smoke inhalation and went home.

Sanders, who suffered a leg injury last Tuesday night in a West Granite fire, was admitted to St. Elizabeth hospital. Large soap cartons had fallen and buried him while he was in dense smoke. He was rescued by other firefighters.

Romine cut his left wrist on steel shelving and was released from the hospital after treatment.

Firemen were on the scene until about 6:30 a.m.

Probe by Fire Marshal
Police and the state fire marshal's office are investigating. The fire came from a drive-in restaurant employee who was on his way home at the time.

Chief Earl Fromberger said the arson investigation was launched primarily because it was evident that the blaze had originated from two different locations, one in about the center of a storage area where products were kept and one in the rear of the store, near bags of charcoal.

Firemen assigned to four trucks went to the scene along with off-duty firemen, who were alerted that their help was needed.

Precise loss estimates will be determined after insurance adjusters arrive and others have had an opportunity to view merchandise.

Study Set On Taxing Agencies' Spending

Local Survey Team Seeks to Eliminate Any Unnecessary Costs

A new organization, the Tri-Cities Public Expenditures Surveying and Budgeting Unit, has been formed by local industries in response to growing concern about the record increases in property taxes levied by public officials toward the steadily-rising cost of operating city, school, county and other local governments, it was announced today.

Randall E. Robertson, Granite City attorney and general counsel for the Public Expenditures Surveying and Budgeting Unit, said the survey will review the budgets of tax-supported public bodies and, where appropriate, will suggest means of holding down costs.

"The Tri-Cities Public Expenditures Surveying and Budgeting Unit is a joint effort of the common goal of ensuring that all taxpayers in the Tri-Cities obtain a maximum return for their tax dollars," Robertson said.

"Any success our new organization will benefit all property owners. Our principal activity will be to assist the various local governments in their efforts to improve efficiency in the development of annual budgets and levying taxes."

Seek to Prevent Waste
"The industrial taxpayers who have formed the Tri-Cities Public Expenditures Surveying and Budgeting Unit are not interested in lowering the quality of services rendered by the schools or other public agencies."

"However, we are certainly interested in preventing waste and unnecessary costs in view of the tremendous tax burden already being carried by property owners in the Tri-Cities, individual and business alike," Robertson pointed out.

"The report of local government services in the Tri-Cities has risen faster than most property realizations — and much faster than the cost-of-living or the population," he added.

Tax Total Climbing
"The report of local government services in the Tri-Cities has risen faster than most property realizations — and much faster than the cost-of-living or the population," he added.

Area to Seek $750,000 in Federal Flood Damage Aid

Quad-City area officials will seek flood damages of nearly $750,000 under last week's disaster area proclamation by Gov. Ogilvie, it was reported today.

Requests for federal funds to cover damages to sewers and drainage canals and for emergency flood fighting activities have been made by Granite City and are being prepared for filing by the East Side Levee and Sanitary district, Namecki town ship and the cities of Madison and Venice.

All flood requests must be filed by Wednesday night with William L. Eisele, mutual area coordinator of the Illinois Department of Civil Defense at Belleville. The requests then will go to the State Civil Defense department for preparation of a report that will form the basis of an emergency proclamation by the President, clearing the way for allotment of federal funds.

Madison county was among 26 Illinois counties declared a disaster area by Gov. Ogilvie last week as a result of damages by interior flooding caused by heavy rains in early July.

Procedure for submitting flood requests was discussed Thursday night in a meeting of officials from Madison and St. Clair counties in the St. Clair county Civil Defense headquarters at Swansea. Federal funds are available only for damages to public property and no aid is available under the disaster program to individual homeowners, or others who suffered private property losses.

GC Asks $372,000
Largest claim already has been filed by Granite City, amounting to $372,000.

Mayor Donald Partney said this request for federal aid includes $34,774 for repairing sanitary sewers caused from stormwater infiltration, $23,428 to cover the cost of pumping storm water from the Lynch avenue-Veeder street area, and Dobrey slough, and $5546 spent in removal of debris and general cleanup work.

William "Mike" Ebersold of Venice, Madison county member of the Levee district who pressed state officials for a disaster proclamation early in the flood fight, said he will file a claim for $100,000.

Police found three 12-gauge shotguns, a 410-gauge shotgun, a 22-caliber rifle and ammunition in the car driven by Conway, who said a hunting trip was planned.

MORE ABOUT Study Set

rose only 16.1 points, or 15%, the property tax only about 34%, and average per-household income for this area only 28 1/2%.

Robertson pointed out that Tri-Cities property owners are finding it more difficult to absorb these heavy increases in property taxes because of the general inflation and recent major increases in state taxes including the new Illinois income tax and increases in the gasoline, cigarette, liquor, beer and motel-hotel taxes.

Survey Team

The formation of the Public Expenditures Survey has been discussed with the heads of many of the local governments in the Tri-Cities "and they have expressed complete willingness to cooperate," Robertson said. "At the outset, the Survey will include the following: industrial taxpayer representatives including the following:

A. P. Steinhauer, works manager of American Steel Foundries; Howard E. Schuenke, controller, and Carl O. Thornberry, accounting manager of A. O. Smith Corp.; V. W. Hamann, division controller, and Fred H. Eckert, manager at the rolling mill of Dow Chemical Co.; Thomas C. Marton, vice-president of administration and Austin Witter, tax manager, General Steel Industries; W. F. Hoelscher, secretary-treasurer, and Melvin McKay, assistant treasurer of Granite City Steel Co.; Melvin R. Buyer, plant manager, and R. K. Leigewicz, manager of services, Johns-Manville Corp.; Albert Zamorine, controller of Nesco Steel Barrel Co.; and J. Hunter, vice-president of domestic operations, and W. E. Jackson, manager of financial affairs and services, Miles Laboratories.

Objections Were Planned

Robertson said a number of industries in the local area reacted to the sharp increase in their 1968 tax bills by making preliminary plans to go to court with formal objections to excess or illegal taxes in the total tax rates levied by many local government units.

This would have resulted in those industries withholding payment of approximately $800,000 in taxes due this summer. The tax payments of individuals who did not bring suit against the questionable rates would not have been affected.

"After some discussion," Robertson said, "the industries decided instead to approach the problem in a positive manner by forming the Tri-Cities Public Expenditures Survey which, if successful, will benefit all taxpayers on a uniform basis. However, it was also the consensus of the industries involved that they may have to resort to individual objections to excess or illegal tax rates in the future if the approach of the Public Expenditures Survey fails to produce worthwhile results.

"The property taxpayers who live and do business in the Tri-Cities are in a difficult period. We must obtain maximum efficiency in the use of our tax dollars as a means of avoiding these constant and staggering tax increases. We also need to bring order into the tax rate structure. The taxing bodies should be able to operate without depending on illegal or excessive tax rates," Robertson stated.

The two o'clock ceremony was performed by Dr. Baumann, church pastor, assisted by Rev. H. H. Wintermyer.

The bride chose a gown of white silk organza over taffeta. Venice lace daisies accented the bodice and the short bell-shaped sleeves. The floor-length skirt swept into a graceful chapel train bordered with matching lace and finished with a ruffle of silk organza. The wedding breakfast was held at the Den on State street, and relatives and friends of the couple attended an evening reception at the Polish Hall in Madison.

Ribboned Chantilly lace fashioned the Empire bodice of the bride's gown. Designed with a scalloped, sabrina neckline and elbow sleeves, a bow trimmed the front of the floor-length A-line skirt of imported rayon organza which swept into a Watteau chapel train encrusted with ribbon lace motifs.

A matching floral lace and pearl headpiece secured a bouffant floor-length veil of imported bridal illusion, and the bride carried a bouquet of white carnations and orchids combined with ivy.

MRS. GARRY G. CALLENDER. Her wedding took place Saturday evening at Trinity United Methodist Church. She is the former Lynda Marie Wallace.

Callender-Wallace Nuptials At Trinity Methodist Church

Trinity Methodist Church was the scene of the wedding Saturday evening of Miss Lynda Marie Wallace, a daughter of Joseph A. Wallace Jr., 3117 Myrtle avenue, and Garry G. Callender, son of Frank E. Callender, 1238 Klein street, Venice.

Flowers and ferns on the altar and lighted candles in candelabra provided the setting for the 7 o'clock ceremony performed by the Rev. Clair Clark. A reception was held afterward at the Rose Bowl.

Mrs. Joyce Harris, organist, provided a program of music for the wedding before and during the ceremony. Mr. Wallace gave his daughter in marriage. She wore a long A-line gown of white silk organza over taffeta. It was styled with a scoop neck, long sleeves and trimmed with flowers across the top and around the skirt. A short veil was secured with a flowered headpiece, and the bride carried a bouquet of white carnations and pink roses.

Mrs. Joseph A. Wallace III, a sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor, serving with two bridesmaids, Miss Cindy Lou Wallace a sister of the bride and Miss Mary Frances Lee.

The attendants wore aqua gowns of chiffon and cotton with wide belts and ruffles down the fronts. Their brief veils matched the dresses and they held bouquets of pink flowers.

Joanna Wilkerson and John Armour, a niece and nephew of the bridegroom, were flower girl and ring bearer. The little flower girl was in a dress of aqua and white chiffon trimmed with lace. She wore a brief veil and carried a small bouquet.

Roderick Bauder was best man for Mr. Callender, and groomsmen and ushers included Paul W. Callender, a brother of the bridegroom, Roger Schaffner, Joseph A. Wallace III, and Gerald Langston.

After a honeymoon in the Missouri Ozarks, the couple will live at 2666 Madison avenue. The bride was graduated from the local high school and is employed as a beautician. The bridegroom, a junior at Southern Illinois University majoring in veterinary medicine, is a graduate of Venice high school.

MRS. JAMES M. MORAN, one of the late summer brides. Her wedding took place at St. Joseph Catholic Church Saturday.

Miss Yobby, James Moran Exchange Wedding Vows

Miss Rosemarie Yobby became Mrs. James M. Moran Saturday morning in an 11 o'clock ceremony taking place at St. Joseph Catholic Church.

The Rev. Martin Mangan heard the vows of the couple before the altar decorated with urns of summer flowers. A reception was held afterward at the American Legion Hall in Venice.

Escorted down the aisle by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of silk organza over taffeta, featuring an Empire waist. The hem of the A-line skirt, the short sleeves and scoop neckline were edged with Chantilly lace encrusted with pearl clusters. A bow of matching fabric secured a cathedral train which was also trimmed with appliques of lace and pearls.

A double floral headpiece of lace and nylon petals centered with jewels secured the bride's tripler nylon veil, and she carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations and ivy centered with an orchid corsage.

The bride's cousin, Miss Peggy Timko, maid of honor, and Mrs. Mary Kreher, Mrs. Kathy Strain, another cousin, Miss Diane Baranica, and Miss Susan Petrunic, the bride's niece, bridesmaids, were gowned in karate cloth with scoop necklines and short sleeves. Venice lace motifs and more of the lace trimmed the necklines and sleeves and soft bows accented the back set-in panels which fell to the hems of the A-line skirts.

Matching headpieces held in place tiny veils, and the attendants carried Spanish clusters of French carnations. The honor attendant was in aquamarine and the bridesmaids wore apricot.

Patry and George Petrunic, a niece and nephew of the bride, served as flower girl and ring bearer.

First Lead in June

Police authorities obtained their first lead on the operation last June 24 when Deputy Wilson was dispatched to Chouteau Island on a report of someone stealing gasoline from a pickup truck.

Flames hit the night sky a short distance away, and Wilson and another night rider went to the scene. A 1957 auto was in flames. Parked nearby was a 1963 auto with four persons inside.

Checking the license number the next day, Wilson learned that the 1957 auto was stolen from Lowell Dallas, 217 Benton street. The accessories of the auto had been removed.

The same accessories and parts turned up within 24 hours in the trunk of the 1963 auto, which crashed into an apartment at Kirkpatrick Homes.

SOCIETY

MRS. STEPHEN WILLAREDT, a Saturday bride. Before her marriage at St. John United Church of Christ she was Susan Trgovich.

Miss Trgovich Becomes Bride of Stephen Willaredt

Miss Susan Trgovich, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Trgovich, 1923 Edwardsville road, and Pvt. Stephen R. Willaredt, son of Mrs. Margaret Willaredt, 2222 Delmar avenue, were married Saturday evening at St. John United Church of Christ.

Rev. Paul Surbey heard the vows of the couple at 7 o'clock in a candlelight setting and a reception was held in the church Fellowship Hall. Kathy Butler was in charge of the register.

The bride chose a gown of imported rayon organza over taffeta. It was trimmed with Venice lace motifs applied on the front of the Empire bodice and the cuffs of the long tapered sleeves. Matching lace motifs accented the A-line skirt and edged the full chapel train.

A flowered Venice lace headpiece with pearl center secured the bride's three-tiered bouffant veil of imported illusion and she carried a cascade of 'mums and variegated ivy. Miss Barbara Sedabres and Pvt. Angelo Blason, U. S. Army, were the only attendants. Tim Jones, and John Relleke, a cousin of the bride, served as ushers. Miss Sedabres wore a gown of pink rayon organza over taffeta with long puffed sleeves. Green embroidery flowers highlighted the Empire waist, and a double bow headpiece was in a matching shade of pink. Her flowers were pink Elegance carnations and pink roses. White gladioli and pink 'mums were used to decorate the church altar.

A program of wedding music was furnished by Mrs. Irene Barrick, organist, and Mrs. Lois Bibrey, vocalist. For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Trgovich chose a jacket ensemble of green linen and bone accessories, while Mrs. Willaredt was in a navy blue dress with light blue trim. Both wore cymbidium corsages.

The couple will honeymoon at the Lake of the Ozarks, and Pvt. Willaredt will leave Aug. 23 for duty in Vietnam. The bride will remain here while he is away. A graduate of Granite City high school, as is her husband, the former Miss Trgovich is employed in St. Louis.

A rehearsal dinner was held at Rusty's restaurant in Edwardsville Friday evening.

Wallene Jones Becomes Bride of Darrell McGlasson

The wedding of Miss Wallene Jones, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Jones, 220 East 24th street, and Darrell McGlasson, a son of John McGlasson and Mrs. Joyce McGlasson of Normandy, Mo., took place Saturday evening at Grace Baptist Church.

The Rev. Clifford Moeller officiated at the 7 o'clock service, and a reception was held at the Moose Hall.

A teacher at the top pay level received $109 ($10,325) and is offered $1388 ($12,500), up 23%.

The local requests $1444 ($13,000, up 23%.

It should be noted immediately that, to the extent Local 743 may clarify its request in the future, the requested amounts listed in the preceding paragraphs would change. The Press-Record estimated the request to be $275 ($2475), including $272 ($2450) and the $3 ($25) cost-of-living factor.

State Aid Increase
If the amount of state aid increase is $1,849,187, the current projection, 7.38%, of this would be $208 ($1850) per person divided by 700, or $220 ($1986) per person divided by 655.

Local 743 seeks 70.38% of the increase plus $66 ($600). It contends that it is entitled to a fixed share without regard to other school costs or other costs borne by taxpayers.

It is the current policy not to hire non-degree teachers except under extraordinary circumstances; there are nine on the staff. Starting pay in this category was $375 ($3175). The offer is $683 ($6150), up 18%, and the request is $850 ($7650), up 47%.

The cost-of-living item is received by all teachers. It has been based on $2 a year per full-half-percent of rise in the U. S. Labor Department consumer price index up to $125. Cost to the district last year exceeded $80,000.

The board proposes a $150 maximum, already indicated by the July 1968-June 1969 index, in 1969-70.

Limit to Be Removed
In 1970-71 and 1971-72, it proposes continuation of the $25-per-half-percent raise but without a maximum limit; if the index (inflation) rises 20%, the pay raise would be $175; 4%, $200, etc.

Local 743 has endorsed the no-limit concept as part of its overall proposal.

Other cost factors are: Insurance—Extra benefit received by 404 of the 700 certificated personnel at an annual cost of $134.16 each, a grand total of $53,752. Six did not wish to be included.

The district paid individual insurance premiums for hospitalization, medical and major medical insurance, taking all dividends accruing under an individual plan, with dividends on family plans covered.

The board proposal calls for this coverage to be extended also to spouse and children, when desired, and for $250 term life insurance to be provided for the certificated personnel. All costs are to be borne by the district.

For a man teacher, this is expected to cost, in addition to the $134.16 a year, $172 for a wife and another $100 for children, a total of $406. For a woman teacher, in addition to the $134.16, it will be $100 for the husband and another $100 for children, a total of $334. The life insurance cost has not been determined.

Local 743 indicated that, as part of the overall agreement, it suggested June 27, it would accept the proposed insurance program with a stipulation that the current carrier will be maintained for the life of this contract. The board had outlined its current policy with Prudential and said that, should it "decide to seek proposals from carriers other than the present carrier, the union will be consulted."

Costs seem likely to total several hundred thousand dollars.

Extra-curricular pay—Extra pay received by over 70 teachers. Recipients coach athletics or supervise various programs. Cost to the district in 1968-69 was substantial last year, including $5,096 for extra athletics supervision.

Starting with the base salary in effect for five categories of teachers, bachelor degree, bachelor with 150 credit hours, bachelor with 175, master degree, the district has paid an added amount ranging from 2.5% to 14.75% in the first year to 4.75% to 25% after ten years of teaching experience.

The range at junior high schools and other schools has been 1.75%-6.15% in the first year to 4%-11% after ten years.

The new extra-curricular schedule, listed as agreed upon, is similar in most of the categories but involves greater dollar figures due to the percentages being applied to higher salary schedules.

It repeats the existing percentages for 31 categories of assignments and adds three categories: 6.5%-11%, and social workers, $67.50.

The new extra-curricular chart also shows $100 for the school year for supervisors of GCHS and junior high school patrols and $100 for sponsors of administratively-approved clubs and organizations meeting after school hours. It is to be stipulated that sponsorship of all clubs and organizations meeting after school hours is to be voluntary.

Assignment of Sixth Class
Heavy teaching assignments—Extra pay received by more than 10 teachers.

Normal assignment at GCHS and the junior high schools has been defined as five classes, no more than one of which is a one-hour study hall, plus an assigned half-hour study hall, half duty or lunchroom duty (not applying to vocational shop teachers with two three-hour or three one-hour classes).

Instructors assigned six separate classes totaling six hours of teaching have been paid $468.20 for each such semester and become exempt from the half-hour lunch study or similar duty.

Those assigned five and a half hours of teaching have been paid $233.10 a semester and also gained exemption from the lunch study, hall or similar duty.

Extra teaching time daily amounted to 14½ hours in the district last fall and 12½ hours this spring. Cost in 1968-69 was $12,587.

The board proposes semester pay for a sixth class of 91/1000 of a teacher's school year salary, which would total $1610 in 1969-70 for a typical teacher. For five and a half hours of teaching, it offers semester pay of $537.00 or $605 during the coming school year for a typical instructor. As part of its overall proposal, Local 743 suggests hourly pay of 1/1000 of average salary, an amount similar to that offered.

If there are as many extra assignments as in the past, costs would total $21,870 in 1969-70.

Pay When Departing
Accumulated unused earned absences—Extra pay received by retiring and resigning teachers at cost to the district of $27,996.

For "earned absences" accumulated by not taking as much leave as permitted, teachers have been paid—upon retiring from Illinois teaching—for 50% of the days if they have taught 15 consecutive years in the district, or 25%. Resigning teachers have been paid 25%.

To receive the compensation an individual must, except in the case of death, complete the contract year and give notice of departure by July 1, except for illness or emergency unforeseen before July 1.

The board suggests raising the 50% figure to 60% for retiring teachers with 15 years of service, removing the word "consecutive." Total number of compensated days in a year would still be regarded as 195, but the maximum compensation that could be paid would rise from $2500 to $3000. Local 743 says it would accept this part of its overall proposal.

Classroom substitution—Extra pay received by about 175 of the teachers.

When a teacher's preparation period is used for a one-hour assignment to substitute for another teacher, the pay has been $18 for 31 to 60 minutes, $2.50 for 10 to 20 minutes or nothing for nine minutes or less in an hour.

Taking as a median a teacher with bachelor degree and 150 credit hours on the sixth salary level, the board proposes that pay be 1/1400, 1/2800 or none for the 31-60, 10-20 and 15-minute portions. Local 743 proposes that this be 1/1000.

Cost to the district in 1968-69 was $11,895.

Based on the board's salary schedule offer for 1969-70, the hourly pay would be $6.32 according to the board formula or $8.35 according to the union's formula. This indicates a possible yearly cost to the district of $14,400 to $20,100 if the amount of classroom substitution remains constant.

Substitution occurs when there is tardiness or when an instructor is absent and no all-day substitute is available. Sick leave is 10 days a school year, cumulative to 75 days.

Non-regular employees called in last year to substitute for absent teachers or on various other leaves—received $167,286. This is a direct cost to the schools but was not included in determining the average pay of the 653 regular staff members earlier in this article.

After-School conferences
Extra pay proposed for about 200 teachers at non-graded elementary schools. They would be paid for 20 hours if they have 30 pupils (18 hours if 27 pupils, 22 hours if 33 pupils, etc.) at 1/1000 of the sixth step of the salary level in the column for teachers with bachelor degree and 150 credit hours. $8,350 in 1969-70 and $9,550 in 1970-71 under the offer made by the administration have been paid $15 a game. GCHS varsity football, basketball and wrestling events; $7.50 at GCHS sophomore and junior varsity football, junior high football, GCHS and junior high track meets, GCHS non-varsity wrestling and junior high wrestling. Four GCHS sophomores and junior high basketball, the helper pay has been $7.50 a night for two games or $3.75 a night for one game.

The board has proposed a somewhat similar program, increased to $15 a night for two games or $7.50 a night for one game of GCHS sophomore basketball and junior high school basketball. Its negotiating records indicate agreement has been reached.

Homebound Teaching
—Extra pay received by a varying number of teachers, depending on the extent of illness; 36 teachers received extra pay for this type of work in May 1968. Cost to the district in 1968-69 was $2200.

The two regular homebound teachers have a normal load of five pupils, each taught for one hour daily; when a sixth pupil was assigned, they received $5.18 for each such hour over the normal five. Those not regularly employed as homebound teachers were paid $5.18 hourly when doing homebound teaching.

The board proposes that, in both instances, the hourly rate be 1/1000 of a teacher's school year salary. Local 743 feels the rate should be 1/1000 of "average salary." Costs may top $3000.

Acting Principal
Acting principals—Extra pay received by 16 of the teachers. In each building, including an assistant principal, a staff member is designated as acting principal to serve when the principal or some other district administrator is not present. Cost is $1780 for the school year.

Pay has been at $5.18 an hour payable to the nearest accumulated hour at the end of the school year, when the absence is for a full day or more, the acting principal has been paid for each such day on the basis of where his position would be on the principals' salary schedule.

The board proposes that an acting principal receive $100 a school year for such service; when a regular principal is absent for longer than three consecutive days, the acting principal would be paid, in addition to the $100, according to a formula taking into account the difference between principal and teaching daily rates.

It is proposed to add the clause that, when a principal is absent for a full day or more, a substitute will be hired to teach the class of the acting principal.

As part of its overall proposal, Local 743 suggested that acting principals be paid 1/1000 of school year salary each hour, which would be $8.85 for a median teacher this year and $9.50 in 1970-71 under the board's proposal.

The projected cost exceeds $2900.

Professional improvement—

Extra pay received by about 24 teachers in the spring semester. Total cost to the district in 1968-69 was $1631.

Faculty members getting a "C" grade or higher in courses at accredited colleges, if the course was approved by the administration, have received 50% of the tuition, except when on a scholarship or federal grant.

The board has offered to pay 75% of such tuition; it reports that the point has not been agreed upon. Local 743 said on June 27 it would accept this if a part of an overall plan it was suggesting; the overall plan is not acceptable to the board. Costs may exceed $200 in the coming year.

Summer school teaching will be discussed separately.

Today's article has provided considerable detail, to serve as a base for later articles which will seek to simplify the complexities.

Mr. and Mrs. Grant Harbison, 3032 Nameoki drive, and Mr. and Mrs. Gale Lambert of Cahokia, Ill., returned home Wednesday afternoon from a three-day fishing trip at Duck Creek and the St. Francis River in southern Missouri.

MISS LINDA JEAN FROEMLING, whose engagement to Steven Emory Bristol is announced.

Fisk-Twietmeyer Wedding At Concordia Lutheran

Miss Dorcas Margaret Twietmeyer, eldest daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Arvin Twietmeyer of Concordia Lutheran Church, became the bride of Harold Talmage Fisk Jr., a son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Fisk of Madison Saturday evening at Concordia.

The church bell began the wedding worship with the professional according to Marcello's "Psalm XIX" at 7:30.

The bride was escorted by her father down the candlelit aisle to the waiting bridegroom and then Rev. Twietmeyer robot for conducting the worship service.

The congregation voiced the prayer of the bridal couple as it sang two stanzas of "Let Us Ever Walk With Jesus." Mrs. Toni Karbanski sang Bach's prayer hymn, "O Love That Casts Out Fear." After the exchange of rings and the lighting of their torches, the bride and groom received the blessings during liturgy Mrs. Karbanski contributed "The Agnus Dei" and "The Nunc Dimittis."

The wedding party left the altar to the strains of Vienne's "Finale from Symphony I." Ronald Preloger, a music major at River Forest Teachers College in River Forest, Ill., the organist, offered as preludes to the worship: Buxtehude's "Nun Bitten Wir," Handel's "Lo Rejoice" and "Solemn Processional," Bach's "Now Thank We All Our God" and Hillert's "Let Us Ever Walk With Jesus."

The bride's tatter addressed a marriage sermonette to the couple under the title "Thankfully Submissive" from Ephesians 5.

The worship followed a prepared folder on the cover of which was a specially designed IHC symbol, around the "I" of which were circled two wedding bands. In the center of one was a nursing cap and in the other a book and quill, symbolizing the bride's and groom's service professions.

A gown of ivory peau de soie was worn by Miss Twietmeyer. It featured open bell sleeves of English net appliqued with Alencon re-embroidered lace. The bodice was designed with a scoop neck and appliques on the modified A-line skirt which swept into a court train of net with lace appliques.

A Camelot cap of lace and seed pearls was attached to a shoulder length veil of ivory illusion, and the bride carried a nosegay of gardenias.

Mrs. Berth Stone, a sister of the bride, was matron of honor, and Miss Marianna Fisk, sister of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Martha Heape served as bridesmaids. Junior bridesmaids were Miss Shereth Twietmeyer and Miss Bonnie Fisk, sisters of the bride and groom. The attendants wore aqua ribbons in their hair and held ivory nosegays of asters.

All of the attendants were dressed alike in floor-length gowns of aqua Jakarta linen with Empire bodices, high collars and short sleeves. Bows trimmed the hemlines of the A-line skirts and matching bows with long streamers accented the backs of the gowns.

Mr. Fisk's attendants were Byron Heape, best man, Ron Davis and Mark Twietmeyer, a brother of the bride, groomsmen, and Tim Fisk, another brother of the bridegroom, and Danny Hunicutt, junior groomsmen. Richard Kinkle and Chris Rowekamp served as ushers.

For her daughter's wedding the bride's mother chose a long apricot crepe gown and a corsage of gardenias. The bridegroom's mother wore a floor-length dress of soft yellow and a gardenia corsage.

The former Miss Twietmeyer is a nursing graduate of SIU-SW and is now employed with the Visiting Nurses Association. Mr. Fisk, also a graduate of SIU, will teach algebra at Madison high school this fall.

After a brief honeymoon, the couple will reside at 2308A State street.

MRS. ADRIAN MARTINEZ, whose wedding was an event of Saturday taking place at Nameoki United Methodist Church.

Miss Diana L. Sichling is Bride of Adrian Martinez

Wedding vows were exchanged by Miss Diana Lynn Sichling and Adrian Martinez in a ceremony taking place Saturday evening at Nameoki United Methodist Church.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Loren Sichling, 2496 Stratford lane. Mr. Martinez' parents are Mr. and Mrs. Jose Martinez, 1717 Spruce street.

White altar bouquets and lighted candles in branched candelabra entwined with greenery provided the setting for the 7 o'clock ceremony performed by the Rev. Jesse Roberts, pastor of Niedringhaus United Methodist Church.

Mrs. Donnie Stark of Belleville, organist, played the wedding marches and accompanied the vocalist, Mrs. Richard Branding, as she sang "Wedding Prayer," "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer." The candles were lighted by Andy Baugh, a cousin of the bride, and the bridegroom's nephew, Thomas Skerle.

The bride wore a gown of ivory silk organza. The Empire bodice and long sleeves were lavishly trimmed with Alencon lace appliques and tiny seed pearls and a full Watteau train was attached at the neckline in the back. A mantilla, bordered in the same pattern of lace, was worn with a Spanish type headpiece of lace. Her flowers were a teardrop bouquet of white carnations and orange blossoms centered with an orchid corsage.

Pamela Stroud, the bride's sister, was honor attendant, and Miss Donna Duvall, Miss Chris Dufer, Mrs. Rogi Briggs and Mrs. Jim Stockton were bridesmaids.

They were dressed alike in floor-length gowns of pastel pink and chiffon designed with scoop necklines, long sleeves, Empire waistlines, fitted bodices and modified A-line skirts. Multi-colored braid accented the cuffs and the waistlines and olive green velvet bows with streamers cascaded down the center.

Terry Motcal was best man, and the corps of groomsmen and ushers consisted of John Chomko, Richard Martinez, a cousin of the bridegroom, Robert Martinez, another cousin, Joe Martinez, a brother, Jim Chomko and Jim Stockman.

The bride's mother wore a mint green ensemble while the bridegroom's mother chose a seafoam green dress. Both had corsages of white hybrid orchids.

The wedding reception was held at the VFW hall, and the newlyweds left for a honeymoon in New Orleans, La. When they return later in the month they will reside at 845 Alton avenue.

Madison. Mrs. Brenda Valcott presided over the guest book.

Contract Talks

Set Tomorrow in Building Strikes

Negotiations in an effort to reach new contract agreements between three large construction unions and Southern Illinois contractors were at a standstill today as strikers by two of the unions—the ironworkers and the cement finishers—went into the 11th day.

While no contract talks between representatives of the Southern Illinois Builders Association and the Illinois Contractors Association and union officials were scheduled today, U.S. mediators have arranged two separate sessions tomorrow. The meetings will be with officials of the two striking unions.

Members of two large carpenters unions—the Carpenters District Council of Madison County, and the Tri-Counties Illinois District of Carpenters, representing about 3000 members, also are still without a contract. The carpenters, however, are continuing to work on jobs where the ironworkers and finishers have not set up picket lines.

Housing, Drainage Needs Continue

(Granite City Long-Range Plan)

The future of Granite City depends upon the initiative displayed by its residents and elected officials.

If population growth is to occur, the city must correct some of its problems in order to make Granite City a desirable place in which to live. The standard of education must be maintained and advanced. More recreational facilities must be developed to meet the increased demand produced by the more leisure time.

Housing should be renovated and a more varied housing stock offered to prospective buyers. Essential services such as sewer and water must be extended and offered to developing areas if the city is to experience growth.

Probably one of the most acute problems—and one which is extremely detrimental to the character of the community—is the problem of air pollution.

The future of Granite City depends on the ability of not only its residents and elected officials but also the leaders of industry, business and labor to recognize the problem and to seek solutions which will make

Duties of East-West Coordinating Council Growing, Size of Its Board May Increase

The functions of the East-West Gateway Coordinating Council have just been expanded by the federal government, simultaneously with serious discussions within the council on increasing the size of its governing board. At such a time, it may be appropriate to look at the existing council structure to see how well it has measured up during the past four years.

The council reviews local government applications for federal financial participation in 29 categories, mostly physical improvements, including highways, airports, parks, water and sewer systems and hospitals, plus long-range planning. Thirteen more phases are being added, mostly in the field of social and public services, such as nurse training and law enforcement.

The 13 original council directors were six from each state and the chairman of the Bi-State Development Agency, commissioned by many of the members from the two states.

Gateway Council members from Illinois were the mayor of East St. Louis, president of the Southwestern Council of Mayors, president of the Southwestern Illinois Metropolitan Area Planning Commission and county board chairman of Madison, St. Clair and Monroe. Missouri representatives were the St. Louis mayor, St. Louis county supervisor, president of the St. Louis County League of Municipalities and presiding judges of St. Charles, Jefferson and Franklin counties.

Recent additions include the Southwestern Mayors vice-president and St. Louis aldermanic board chairman. Non-voting members are the chief Illinois and Missouri highway engineers, director of the Illinois Bureau of Economic Development and director of the Missouri Community Affairs Department.

The council has acted responsibly. This is fortunate, because the council governs nearly all federally-related projects initiated by all public agencies within the two-state region. The Quad-Cities' potential for a direct voice is through the Bi-State Agency, Plan Commission, mayor's council and Madison county board, none of which at present is represented by a local resident. It was impossible to avoid at least temporary omissions of various communities, due to the need to limit the council to workable size due to the fragmented nature of government in both the Illinois and Missouri sections.

It is proposed to add six "regional citizens" to the council. St. Louisan appointed by the mayor, a St. Louis county resident named by the supervisor, a Missourian chosen by the governor, a Madison county resident selected by a caucus of the county board and a resident of East St. Louis named by the mayor and a resident of Illinois named by the governor. The commendable goal is to seek representation for a wider cross-section of the public.

After each November board meeting, the appointing officials would cause and allocate "community sectors" to the various appointing officials for the coming year, include the business, labor, black, religious and education communities. No appointing officials would have the same sector to fill in consecutive years.

One of the strengths of the council has been that it includes no major elected and appointed officials, whose cooperation and support are invaluable in devising and implementing regional policies and whose direct participation enables groups to become continuously aware of problems and possible solutions.

The non-officials who would be added would be a departure from this concept. Although capable people not holding office could be helpful in council deliberations, the rapid turnover in this group would be a mixed blessing, since it would prevent adequate continuity.

Thought also might be given to a council seat, either voting or non-voting, for each major community, such as the Quad-City area and the Alton area. Such key Illinois population centers are not cognizant to other centers, have only a limited relationship to East St. Louis, and have only a minority voice in their county government.

Federal Welfare Plan Can Strengthen Family Units, Encourage Work Instead of Idleness

The plan for standardization of public welfare throughout the U. S. is overdue because there is excessive disparity between existing aid programs and because they have brought an uptrend in the caseload through encouraging idleness.

President Nixon's proposal creates a federal "floor" under the income of families with young children but includes work requirements and incentives — a needed reversal of the emphasis of the past three and a half decades.

It is designed to bolster family life rather than undermining it, and the dividend from this can be far greater than merely assuring that no Americans go hungry. Lack of parental love and authority may well be at the heart of many of the problems of the present civilization.

The program also is noteworthy in that it would reverse the steady flow of authority to Washington, giving states and local government a meaningful role in the administration of aid, job training and job placement. At the same time, they would not have latitude so great that the needs of minorities or majorities could be blatantly ignored.

In the evaluations of the president's talk pointed out, perhaps accurately, that the initial scope may have to be enlarged in later years. Certainly, as the nation becomes able to afford greater help, specific assistance payments are likely to increase.

But it should be kept in mind that more and more will be crossing over from unemployment to employment, and their productivity, and their increasing ability to support themselves, may well begin to turn the tide, resulting in a steady decline in the number of recipients.

The opportunity and ability to advance from dependence to relative independence is one of the greatest of all freedoms, from an individual standpoint, and one of the greatest necessities, from the standpoint of national goals, living standards and solvency. We hope all rally behind the bold initiative steps that have been outlined; solid public support will if changes so sweeping are, to be achieved.

The world really may not be quite as bad as it seems; it is just that the news coverage is so much better than a century ago.

Approach Taken by Ethics Committee Will Help Shape Youth's Faith in Our Country

It is understandable that Chairman Melvin Price and other experienced legislators on the U. S. House Ethics Committee are reluctant to situate the trouble by exposing to the personal life of Cong. Halpern, Cong. Gallagher and others against whom allegations have been made in recent months. The committee is aware that even well-founded suspicions might, not necessarily provide evidence on which disciplinary action could be based, and that even the launching of an investigation might be viewed by some citizens as proof of wrongdoing by the subject.

But we think veteran congressmen must also keep in mind the fact that there is an active effort by many in the U. S. to undermine the younger generation's faith in America and its government.

To the extent that the ethics group looks the other way when the conduct of fellow legislators is challenged, it could be "proving" to some people that our leaders and system are corrupt and dedicated to special interests, that there is nothing above the law and fair play. In discussing published charges that Rep. Gallagher has had contacts with the underworld and that Rep. Halpern has incurred large bank debts while playing a leading part in writing banking legislation, John Swanner, staff director of the Ethics Committee, said last week that matters involving the personal conduct of a member, not related to his official conduct, are up to the electorate.

But the point is that personal life may in actuality strongly shape an individual's official conduct even though there is no direct connection. Unless the committee assumes some responsibility to look beyond the end of its nose, public confidence is sure to suffer. If it would be better to ignore no Ethics Committee than one which would take such a sharply limited view of its role that it could only react to others' initiatives—and sluggishly, if at all—instead of fully accepting a responsibility to encourage and require ethical conduct.

The trouble with school dropouts is not that they can't see the handwriting on the wall, but that they can't read it.

The first monthly scrap paper drive netted 30 tons, Chairman Ed Myers said.

Mixing fun with business, Chamber of Commerce directors highlighted their meeting at the Waterloo country club by tossing Secretary Roy Rauchbach, clothes and all—except, of course, his trousers—into the club lake. They also played of YMCA Secretary Roy Larsh's latest acquisition, an upper lip growth, with a pair of horse clippers. Later in the evening, postwar projects were discussed.

Tri-Citymen will attend a meeting of the Metropolitan Plan Association to discuss an adequate airport system for this area.

The VTB Bridge club met with Mrs. Charles Moore. Mrs. Frank Aldridge, a sister of the hostess, was a guest and prizes went to Mrs. Clark Rhoads and Mrs. Robert West.

FEAR CROWDING, NOISE IF AIRPORT IS BUILT

To the Editor: We oppose the proposed Edwardsville-Troy, Ill., jetport-industrial complex site for the following reasons:

1. The noise and overcrowdedness associated with the jetport and industrialization will seriously affect the daily operations of the campus of Southern Illinois University. A recent article in a St. Louis newspaper pointed out the extreme disruption of a local school brought on by the zooming-in of low flying jets.

2. The highly successful Mississippi River Festival would be unable to continue in the vicinity of the noise of a jetport.

3. A large region on the east side of the Mississippi River within easy commuting distance of St. Louis has already been devastated by heavy industrialization and attendant air pollution; thus, there is a dire need for residential areas in a quiet zone with clean air.

To remove thousands of acres of highly desirable residential farm land in Pin Oak for a jetport hastens the day for blanket air and water pollution of the entire St. Louis metropolitan area.

The Pin Oak area already has the tone and character of small-town Midwest; a jetport would certainly be an unnecessary intrusion.

4. A site located closer to the river is more desirable because of the ready applicability of an intermodal transportation system.

5. A site closer to East St. Louis would help bolster the economy of that area and surrounding communities, while location of the jetport at the proposed Edwardsville-Troy site would operate against employment of people from the East St. Louis area because of the distance involved.

6. The argument that the jetport alone will lift the economy of the Edwardsville-Troy area will not stand close inspection; for the expansion of this area for residential communities could easily generate a half-billion dollar building industry alone.

7. In the midst of a population explosion that is placing severe strain on our ability to preserve wildlife, adequate recreational sites, and the beauty of our scenic areas, we cannot condemn 15,000-25,000 acres of residential farm land to concrete, noise and the junky commercialization often attending such enterprises.

8. The St. Louis metropolitan region on the east side will gain more by locating the jetport in an area that wants such a facility, saving the Edwardsville-Troy site for residential farm purposes.

For the above reasons and others, we are calling a meeting to be held Tuesday, Aug. 12, at 8 p.m. in the Meridian Room of the University Center to discuss this important matter.

CONCERNED SIU FACULTY-STAFF COMMITTEE
Emil Jasso, Chairman

What do you do when you first get up—go to the window and take a deep breath of air? How do you like the air that you breathe (dirty and polluted)?

This is one of our major problems. How do we get rid of it? No one knows to know. Let's put our heads together and see if we can solve this problem. Because, if we don't, who will?

One of the number of people who are dying from air pollution. We should let children grow up in an unpolluted world.

TEACHERS DESERVE MORE THAN LEFTOVERS

To the Editor: I am not a native Granite Cityan. I came here ten years ago in search of a job.

Since that time I've found more than a job. I'm a school teacher and my HOME town is now Granite City. During the past years I have learned that our educational system is comparable in quality to any in this area and I take a great deal of pride in the work that we do here.

Knowing the importance of my responsibilities to this community, I have been fortunate in getting some expert teachers to take the leftovers as salaries.

I have hopes that many here in Granite City will feel that it is an important enough matter to seek the facts and therefore become somewhat involved in our educational institution.

We, as teachers, do not ask for more than is available to us. We are content to be paid the leftovers as salaries.

How can teachers continue to carry the responsibilities of this position without the understanding of the people and the board of education that they make for an unbalanced diet?

GRANITE CITYAN

Most Separations Bypass Courts

(Tri-City and Illinois Bar Associations)

Voluntary agreements appear to be the rule among those husbands and wives who agree to live apart without getting a divorce.

In one recent month, the state's busiest family court issued only six divorce decrees compared to 1729 divorce decrees—or only one separate maintenance decree for every 300 divorces.

This does not mean that practically all couples who decide to call it quits get a divorce. Rather, it indicates that only a few husbands and wives who choose to stay married but live apart seek to put their agreement on a formal, court-ordered basis.

People who balk at going to court to obtain a separate maintenance decree may wish to avoid airing their differences in public, or have conscientious objections to either divorce or separation. Or they may hope for a reconciliation after a "trial" separation, among other reasons.

However, there are certain advantages to obtaining a formal decree for separate maintenance, if one spouse is dependent upon the other or may become dependent.

Consider the case of a wife who intended to support herself but became ill. Ultimately, she had to file suit for separate maintenance in order to force her husband to help pay doctor and medical bills.

The procedure for filing a suit for separate maintenance is the same as a divorce suit. Ordinarily, such a suit is filed where the spouse who is suing (the defendant) resides.

In fixing the amount of support payments, the court will consider the standard of living when the two were together and other factors.

However, the court may grant temporary support to the plaintiff and may require the defendant to pay the plaintiff's attorney's fees.

As in the case of divorce, the court has jurisdiction over any minor children and may award custody to either parent or to a third party if the court feels that is in the best interest of the children.

If a reconciliation is attempted while a separate maintenance suit is pending, the court should be advised so that it may suspend the proceedings.

Otherwise, the reconciliation could be considered as a condemnation of any prior misconduct of the defendant, and the suit for separate maintenance reconciliation didn't work would be jeopardized if the suit.

"I never considered myself one to point the way," Judd wrote.

"The trails which I followed between 1907 and 1930 were mostly well marked, but traveling has since been made easier."

The casualness of this observation rather distorts reality; well after 1930, fieldwork in many localities of the Southwest has met both expected and unexpected adventure.

Judd's confrontation with twenty years ago, Navaho men who had never seen a white man can hardly be duplicated today.

However, arroyos still become treacherous with flash floods, dangers remain deceptively long and government travel with the technologically advanced world is often non-existent, or at best unreliable.

Judd's reminiscences and portrayals of early archaeologists, traders, Indians and others constitute significant first-hand source materials, primarily for the Southwest, but also for Washington, D.C., and the Southwest region. He served as a representative of the Bureau of American Ethnology, the Smithsonian Institution, and the National Geographic Society.

4 Corners of Southwest Explored

"Men Met Along the Trail: adventures in Archaeology" by Neil M. Judd. Norman, Okla., University of Oklahoma Press. 192 pages, $5.

Reviewed by Charles H. Lange, chairman of the Anthropology Department of Southern Illinois University.

(Review published in the Daily Egyptian, SIU Department of Journalism, Carbondale.)

This small volume has definite appeal and value for the experienced, interested or curious, relative to archaeology or recent history, generally, or the American Southwest, specifically.

For others, the volume may perhaps prove truly fruitful for the numerous characters, "men met along the trail," often minimally identified, and even more frequently with only obscure, if any, threads of continuity—are described.

Judd's archaeological experiences began in 1907 in southwestern Utah.

Much of his subsequent Southwestern experiences occurred there and in neighboring portions of adjacent states, the famous "Four Corners" region, embracing Mesa Verde, Navajo National Monument, Chaco Canyon and the Grand Canyon and Rainbow Bridge areas.

With few exceptions, the Four Corners region is still remote and primitive, the sparse population comprised principally of various Indian tribes, particularly Navajos.

Ill. Local Government Department To Supervise Property Tax Process

(Taxpayers' Federation of Illinois)

Senate Bill 707, passed by the General Assembly at its recent session, establishes a new State Department of Local Government Affairs and can be helpful to both local governments and taxpayers.

The new department will gather up the present agencies and divisions of government pertaining to local government and put them in one place.

In the new agency will be an Office of Community Development, an Office of Housing and Building, an Office of Financial Affairs, and an Office of Research and Planning.

The functions of the State Housing Board, presently in the Office of Community Development, will be transferred to the new department.

9th Annual Fall Festival At Mitchell, Sept. 5-7

The ninth annual fall festival sponsored by the Mitchell Athletic Association will take place Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 5, 6 and 7, it was announced today by Joseph Stephanoff, MAA president and Morris Miles, vice-president and festival coordinator.

The public event will be held at the Mitchell athletic fields, will feature carnival rides, games, entertainment and concession booths.

Stan Lucas, chairman of the concession stand committee, today reported space still available for local organizations to locate various types of booth space in which to provide services, food and beverages, or feature novelty projects. Information may be obtained from Lucas by calling 931-1585, after 6 p.m., or 931-0198 during the day.

The festival project has grown each year since the idea was conceived in 1960, Lucas said. Proceeds derived from the event are used to support the youth work of the volunteer organization.

Probation Office Moves To New Detention Home

The Madison county probation-juvenile office moved its headquarters into the new juvenile detention home on the county sanitarium grounds at Edwardsville on Thursday.

Involved in the move were the juvenile, court services and detention divisions of the probation office, according to James Reideberger, chief probation officer. The adult division remains at the old office at 406 Center street in Edwardsville.

Reideberger said the target date for accepting youngsters at the home is Aug. 27. It will coincide with the opening of school in most of the districts in the county.

The detention home will include a fully accredited school on the premises, with teachers

Federal Aid Plea To Be Topic of GC Air Board

Revision of an application for federal funds to implement enforcement facilities of the Granite City Air Pollution Control Board is scheduled for discussion in a regularly scheduled meeting of the Granite City clean air board tonight in city hall.

Status of the appeal for federal aid and the possibility of securing federal funds is expected to be a major factor in determining whether enforcement of air pollution control regulations in Granite City will be carried out by the local board or will be handled by the state.

The Granite City board's efforts to obtain the funds also are expected to play a part in a presentation to be made for a public hearing tomorrow at Southern Illinois University-Southwestern campus, in which the Illinois Air Pollution Control Board will air its new rules and regulations providing for local control of air pollution within political subdivision boundaries.

Granite City air pollution control board members are expected to be in the city for more than a year to obtain a federal grant of approximately $22,000 to supplement its city budget allotment and thus permit the board to hire a fulltime technically qualified staff member.

Budget Only $14,000

The local board now operates only with a part-time technical secretary on a limited city budget that will not permit employment of a full-time secretary or staff engineer. The 1969-70 budget allotment for air pollution control is $14,000.

One of the primary rules by the state, among those to be presented in the hearing tomorrow, provides that any local agency seeking exemption from the state air pollution control act must employ a full time technical staff member.

Henry Bienencke, chairman of the Granite City air board, has said board members are considering a revision upward of the federal grant application to permit employment of a full-time technical staff member.

Hearing of citizen complaints and reports of actions on recent complaints also are scheduled for tonight's air board meeting. A monitoring report also is to be presented.

Bienencke said tonight's meeting will be an important session, with several major items on the agenda.

Reclamation of Steel From Refuse Studied

(13th of a series)

The only metallic component of refuse significant as salvageable material is ferrous metal, Horner & Shifrin, consulting engineers, have advised Madison, St. Clair and Monroe counties and municipal officials.

Other common metals, such as copper, zinc and lead, normally are present in municipal refuse only in small percentages.

Although aluminum cans are on the increase, their light weight and the difficulty of separating aluminum from the rest of the refuse detracts from the feasibility of reclaiming the aluminum from cans.

The tin coating on the ordinary tinned can detracts from its value as a reclaimed material. None of the local steel and processing industries have any significant interest in the steel recovered from a refuse waste.

The tin may be removed to some degree by burning or by chemical processing, but the tin remaining in the lattices of the cans apparently is still sufficient to make the recovered material unsatisfactory for use in local industries.

St. Louis Plan Terminated

Until recently, a private enterprise had an agreement with St. Louis under which residue from the two city refuse incinerators was processed to recover steel—mainly burned-out tinned cans.

After shredding and cleaning, the recovered material was sold for use in processing of copper ore in the southwest U. S.

This agreement, after being in effect for several years, was found to be unprofitable for the private enterprise as well as unsatisfactory to the city, because of provisions requiring double handling of part of the residue by the city and because of health hazards and nuisances resulting from the recovery process. The agreement has been terminated.

There are a few municipal incinerators at which tinned cans are recovered from residue. Only two of these recovery operations are known to be publicly owned and operated.

Chemical removal of tin from tinned steel formerly was performed at an enterprise within the three-county area, but only industrial scrap was processed. Apparently because of adverse market conditions, the facility is no longer operating.

Derelect Auto Problem

Auto's not normally classified as refuse, derelect autos comprise a significant problem in solid waste disposal and deserve mention.

Two processes are practiced in the three-county area for derelect car disposal. Both require prior removal of engines, transmission, tanks and tires. Radiators and batteries are removed prior to disposal because of their scrap value.

The most significant of the local processes is that operated as a subsidiary of the Laclede Steel Co. at Wood River in which auto hulks are shredded in a large hammer mill. Iron and steel components are recovered by magnetic separators after passing through the shredder.

The recovered material contains less than 1% of non-metallic materials.

No prior burning of the auto hulks is required in this process. Non-magnetic materials rejected by the process currently are disposed of by on-site dumping.

10,000 Monthly Capacity

This shredding operation, after several contemplated improvements are made, will have the capacity to process 10,000 auto hulks monthly.

The second process employed locally involves compression of the hulks into bales. There are several baling installations in the three-county area.

Baling requires that hulks be burred to remove non-metal components before the baling in order for the metal to have much value as a reclaimed material. Prices for pre-burred and baled material are substantially less than for the shredded material.

Uncontrolled burning of auto hulks is not permitted in this area under air pollution control regulations, although the air authorities indicate that a certain amount of clandestine burning is still occurring.

Discarded Fabrics Sorted

At the present time, essentially all textiles not reclaimed directly from manufacturers are bought by brokers from agencies like the Salvation Army and Goodwill Industries.

The wide variety of discarded fabrics in refuse, such as wool, cottons, synthetics and combinations of them, requires that the different fabrics be sorted and baled separately.

The total quantity of textiles in mixed municipal refuse normally is 2% to 4% by weight of the total refuse. Hand-picking is required to separate such materials.

Value of reclaimed textiles depends on the types of material.

Federal Research

As to miscellaneous methods of refuse disposal, various studies are under investigation under the direction of the U. S. Public Health Service.

These investigations include techniques and processes aimed at improving the present accepted methods, such as sanitary landfill, incineration and composting.

Among the basic processes under study are pyrolysis of refuse, to derive usable compounds from waste materials; high temperature incineration, to reduce materials to a slag; and use of prepared refuse as supplementary fuel in large-scale steam boilers.

The economics of these processes have not yet been determined to degrees which presently warrant consideration, except as possible processes which may be attractive in the future.

Refuse Shredding, Baling

Techniques and processes being investigated to improve existing disposal methods include shredding and baling of refuse to increase the efficiency of sanitary landfill operations; rail haul and refuse transfer operations to improve the economics of long-distance hauling; and more specialized investigations relating to landfill, incineration and composting.

There do not appear to be any startling developments to date having any significant effect on the application of presently accepted processes.

But the investigations should be borne in mind as having potential value later.

Detention Home to be Used to Train Persons

Facilities at the new Madison county juvenile detention home will be used in a national training program for detention home personnel to be conducted by Southern Illinois University-Southwestern campus.

A $50,000 grant for the planning and development of the program has been received by the university, according to Robert S. Giliand, project director.

The initial training period, which will operate through June 30 of next year, will focus on administrators, supervisors, and child care workers for two weeks. Skills gained here on the subject by the visiting personnel will be implemented at their respective bases of operation.

The project was started last year at the request of the federal office of juvenile delinquency and youth development to investigate the need for training programs in the detention home.

The university learned that there are no on-going personnel training programs common to a significant number of institutions. The SIU-SW staff has concentrated on curriculum development. From this effort will come training manuals and a data bank, which will make the university the first resource center in the country two weeks. Skills gained here on the subject

July Meter Revenue Hits Lowest Point in 4 Years

Granite City collected a total of $3063 in parking meter fees and fines during July—the lowest total meter income for any single month in nearly four years.

Fee collections totaled $2350 and fine assessments amounted to $513, according to a report by City Comptroller Robert Stevens.

The July income was $239 less than the combined fee and fine revenue of $3302 in June and $1173 less than the $4236 meter income of July 1968.

Records show the July collection to be the lowest monthly meter income since January 1960, when fees of $2389 and fines of $519 were received for a total of $2918.

The July receipts brought to $25,880 the total parking meter revenue for the seven months of the year thus far, a total that is $3317 below the $29,197 collected during the same seven-month period a year ago.

Fine Revenue Drops

The drop in meter receipts has been due primarily to a reduction in fine collections during four months of this year. During the three-month period of March, April and May, fines amounted to $3688, but for the four months of January, February, June and July totaled only $2350.

Largest total collection in any one month this year was in April when fees amounted to $3650 and fines totaled $1963 for a total of $4713.

The month of May produced the second largest meter revenue, a total of $4283 made up of $3000 in fees and $1283 in fines.

Bronze Star Awarded GC Vietnam Veteran

The Bronze Star Medal for meritorious service while in Vietnam from August 1965 to June 1969 recently was awarded to First Lt. Larry L. Deutschman, Corps of Engineers, U. S. Army.

He is the husband of the former Miss Jeannie Patterson of Granite City and a son of Vernal Deutschman and the late Mrs. Vera M. Deutschman.

The Army officer returned from Vietnam in mid-June and shortly thereafter received his discharge. He is currently continuing his education at Southern Illinois University - Southern campus, where he is studying toward a master's degree in Business Administration.

Lt. Deutschman served in Vietnam with Headquarters & Headquarters Co., 20th Engineer Brigade, as property book officer. Although stationed at Bien Hoa, his duties required him to travel to various other areas of the Republic.

The citation accompanying the Bronze Star read in part: "For distinguishing himself by outstanding meritorious service in connection with ground operations against a hostile force in Vietnam from August 1968 to June 1969. Through his untiring efforts and professional ability, Lt. Deutschman consistently obtained outstanding results."

"His initiative, zeal, judgment and devotion to duty have been in the highest tradition of the U. S. Army and reflect great credit upon himself and on the military service."

A 1961 graduate of Granite City high school, the Corps of Engineers officer entered the service in October 1966 and received his commission following graduation from the U. S. Army Engineering School at Fort Belvoir, Va., on Aug. 4, 1967.

He and his wife, also a GCHS graduate, were married on Aug. 12, 1967. The couple presently resides at 3238 Kilarney avenue. Mrs. Deutschman is employed at the Granite City Army Depot.
